ADJUSTING TO LIFE WITH COVID

Covid has had profound impacts on our society.

It has changed the way we behave.

A photograph of a man and a woman in a crowd, both wearing face masks and hats, sharing a kiss. The man is on the left, wearing a straw hat with a blue band and a blue face mask. The woman is on the right, wearing a light-colored fedora and a red patterned face mask. They are both smiling and looking at each other. The background is a blurred crowd of people, suggesting a public event or festival. The overall tone is romantic and joyful despite the pandemic context.

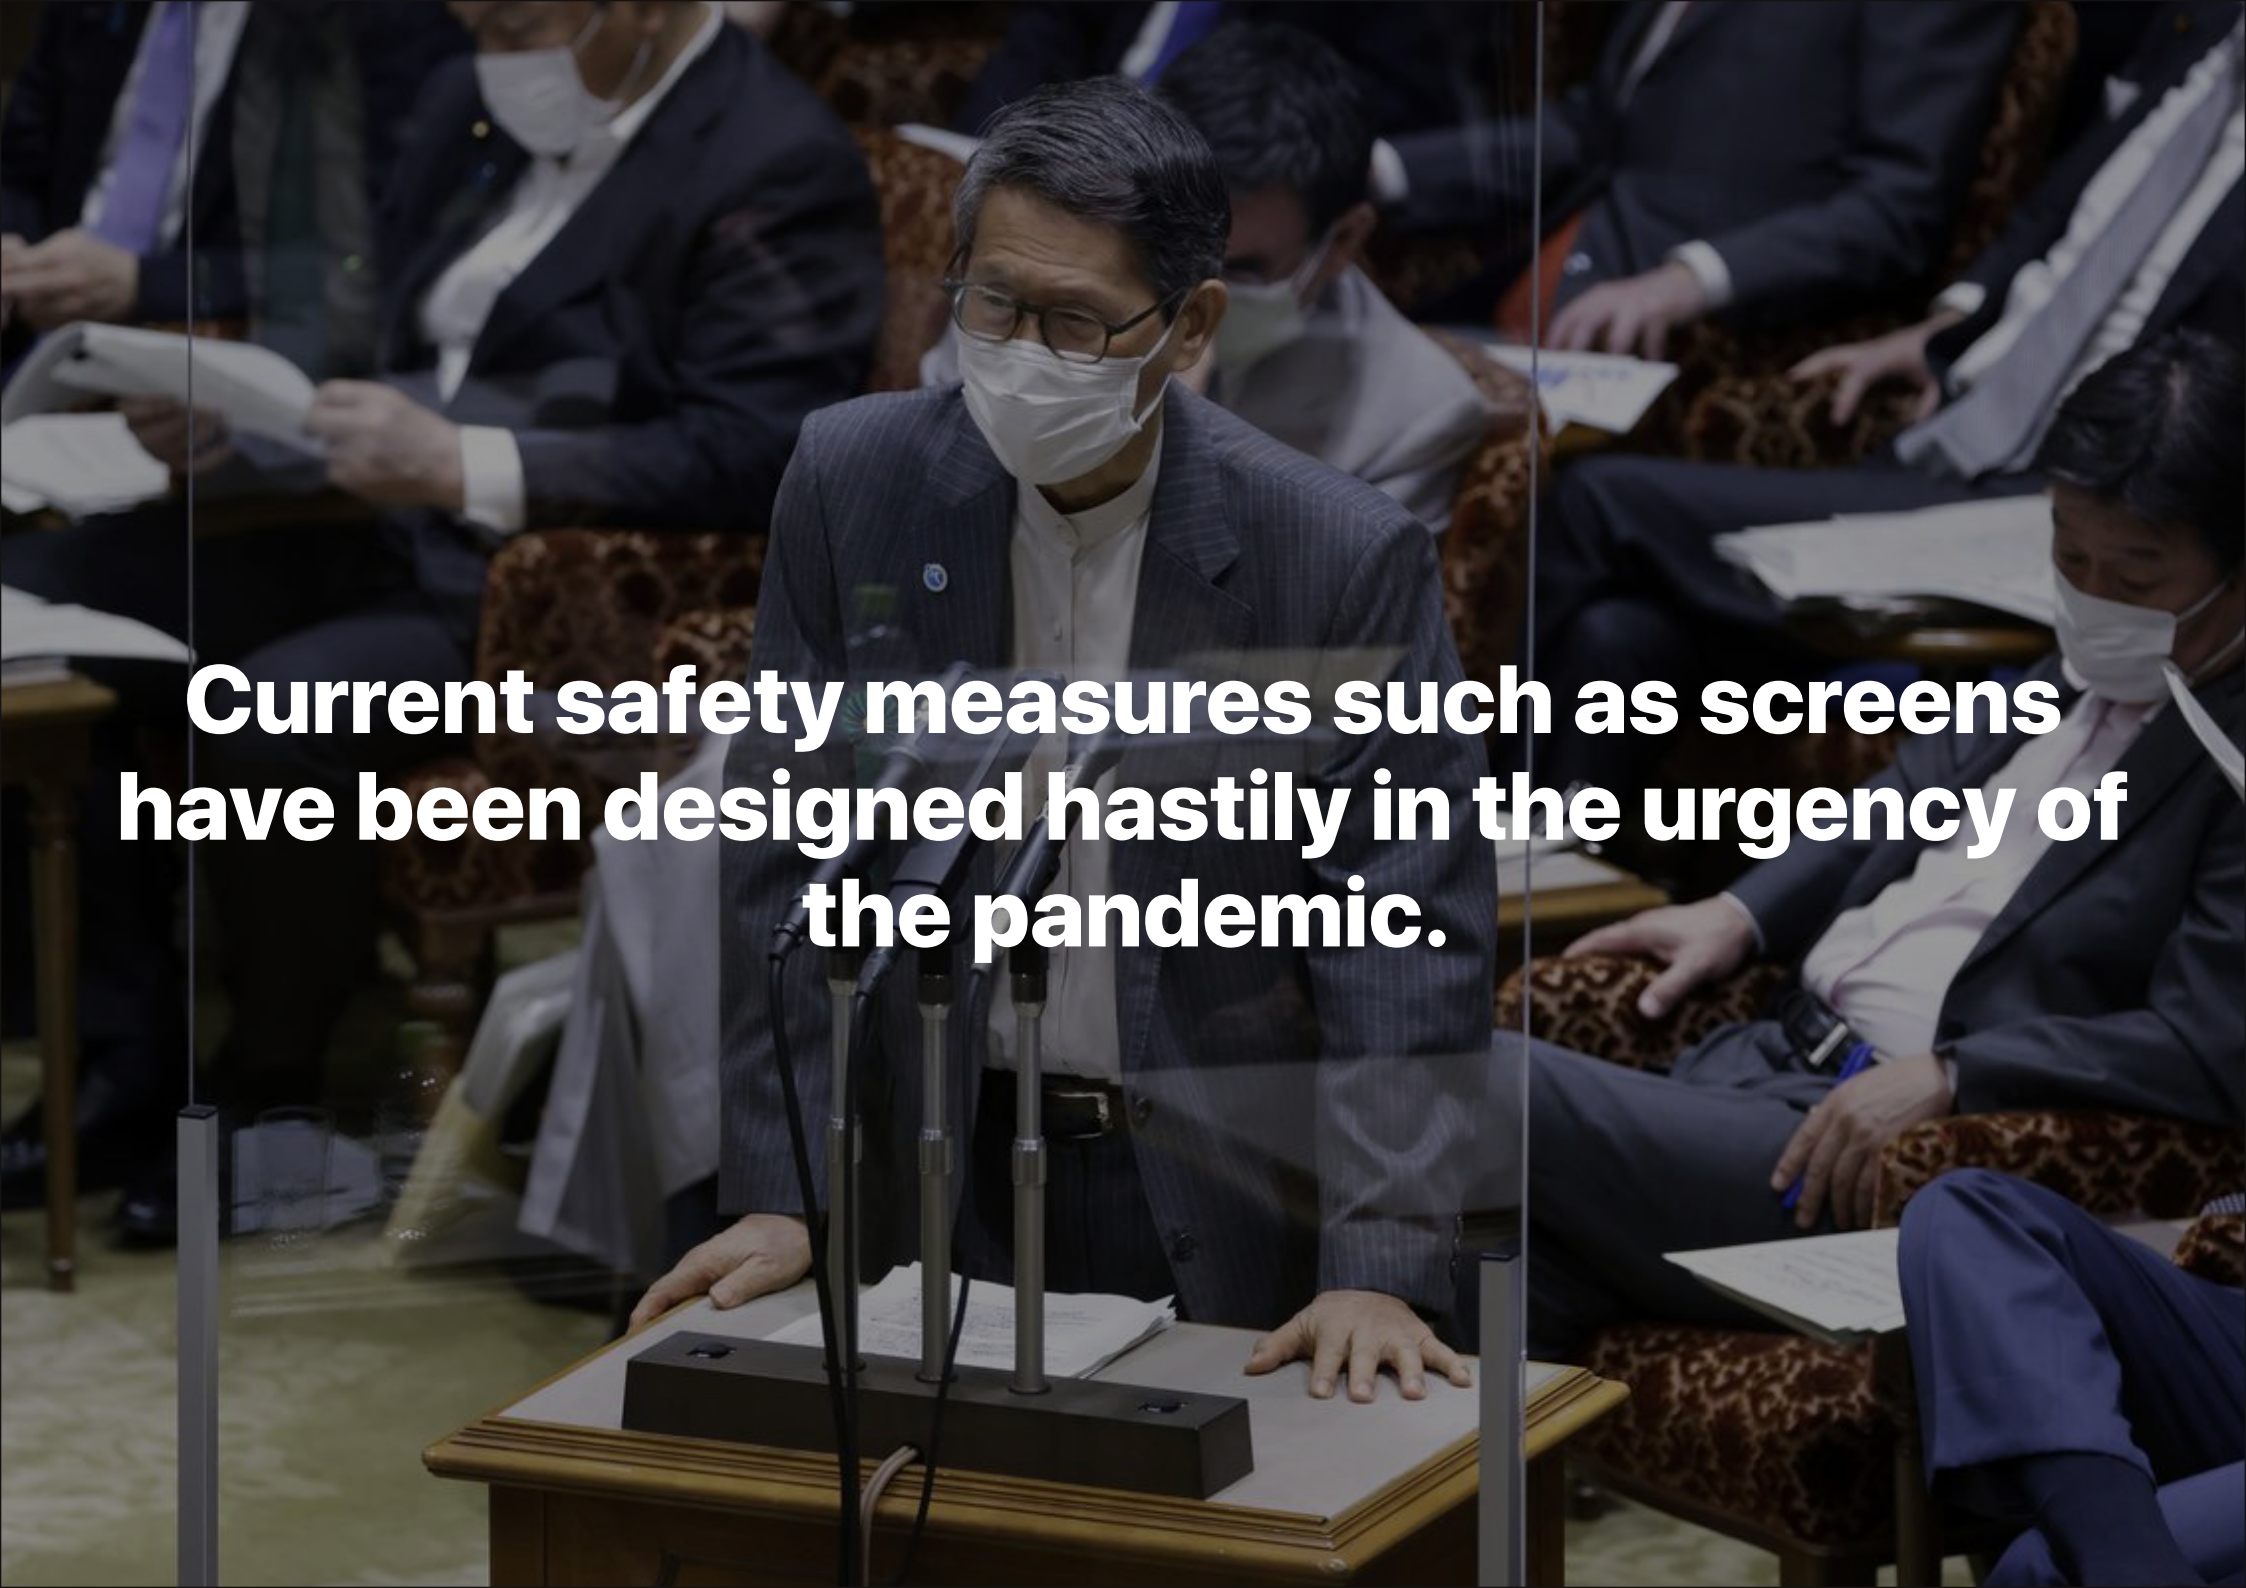

And how we interact with each other.

But we can't live like this forever.

We need solutions to help us to return to normal life
as quickly as possible.

A man with grey hair and glasses, wearing a white face mask and a dark pinstriped suit jacket over a light-colored shirt, is speaking at a wooden podium. He has his hands resting on the podium. In front of him are several microphones on stands. The background shows other people seated in a room, some also wearing face masks. The scene appears to be a formal meeting or press conference.

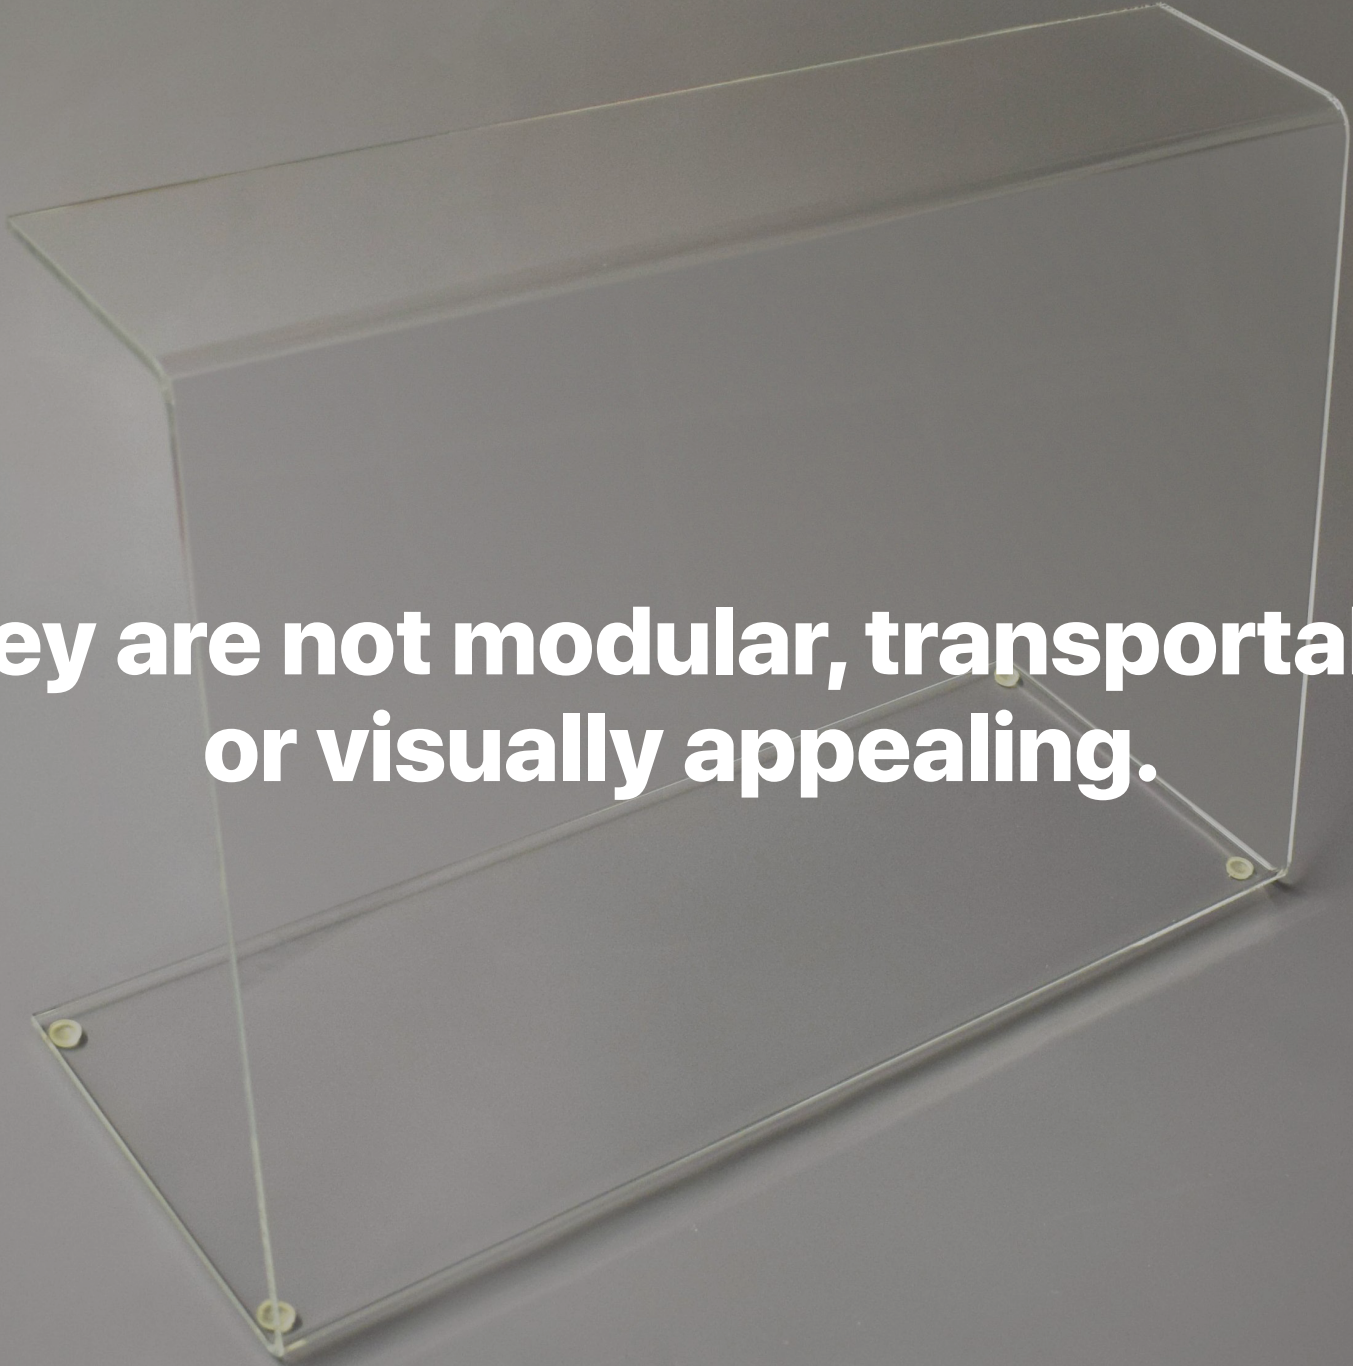

Current safety measures such as screens have been designed hastily in the urgency of the pandemic.
